

MOKENA LIONS
PLAN PAPER,
SCRAP DRIVE

The Mokena Lions club is about to launch a new project—a scrap and paper drive.

Collections are to be made every month and the first one is scheduled for July 28.

Henry Shevlin is chairman of the July collection and will be assisted by Mayor John Scarth. At least 12 members of the club will be needed to make the pick up of the scrap and paper that is in charge hope will be forthcoming. And while the number of collectors has been put at 12, those in charge say all those who turn out will be welcome.

This campaign will not only serve to augment the funds used by the Lions for various community and welfare programs, Lion President Ray Westlund pointed out but it also will be a great help to householders. Everyone knows how fast waste paper appears to pile up and frequently it is a problem to get rid of it.

With the Lions establishing a regular collection service the problem of getting rid of waste paper will be solved. They also will collect scrap metal.

Details of the collections will be announced later but it is understood they will be made in the evening and persons with paper or scrap to be picked up will be asked to leave their porch lights burning as a signal for the collecting crews to stop.

7 Injured In 2-Car
Crash On Route 45;
One Driver Arrested

Seven persons were hospitalized as a result of a two car head-on collision on Route 45, 500 feet south of the 191st St. intersection, Sunday evening. The accident occurred about 7:30 p.m. and was caused by the driver of a southbound car to cross over into the northbound lane as she came up a driveway and into the path of a car traveling north.

The southbound car was driven by Ruby Gallihorn, 26, who gave her address as Chicago. Driver of the other car was Chester E. Curtiss, 41, of Berwyn. Miss Gallihorn was given two arrest tickets by State Patrolman Herman Deeke, one for operating a car without a driver's license, and the other charging traveling on the wrong side of the highway and causing an accident.

Miss Gallihorn had cuts about the head and body. Two passengers in her car, Isaac Boles, of Weimann, Ark., and Floyd Becham of Macon, Ga., also were cut and bruised. Becham has head and hip injuries. Boles was cut about the face and eyes.

The driver of the other car, Chester Curtiss, suffered chest injuries. His wife Eleanor, 41, has a possible fracture of the left hip. A passenger in the Curtiss car, Mrs. Betty Klecka, 44, of Broadview, had a dislocated left shoulder, while her husband Charles, 47 was bruised about the head. The injured were all taken to Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

This was the only traffic accident involving injuries reported in this area over the Fourth.

Lawn specialists at the University of Illinois college of agriculture remind home owners that one of the best ways to control crabgrass in the lawn is to let the desired lawn grasses do the fighting.

C. F. Smith, Head
Of Silver Cross
Hospital, Dies

Clinton F. Smith, 67, superintendent of Silver Cross hospital in Joliet who died Monday following a short illness, is to be buried today at Waterloo, Ia., his birthplace.

He is a past president of the national Protestant Hospital association.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Masonic fraternity and only last month had been elected junior warden of Joliet Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar.

CHURCHES WILL DEDICATE NEW HOME FOR AGED

Dedication services will be held Sunday, July 10 at Peotone for the new Home for the Aged under the auspices of the Evangelical and Reformed churches.

This is the third of such homes established by the Bensonville Home society of the above named churches, in the past three years. One is located at Freeport and a convalescent home at Bensonville was dedicated last September.

The Peotone home is the most recent one and is housed in a modern new structure of brick with apartments for 16 persons. With the aged population growing as it has for the past few years, this church has met the challenge by building more homes for such people. They have worked on an apocryphal idea to what they had formerly, a large unit in one place, and put emphasis on building more homes in several communities closer to residences of the aged people. Therefore the one at Peotone.

Service at 3 P. M.

The Rev. E. H. Plassmann, of the Evangelical and Reformed church at Peotone and a member of the board of directors of the Bensonville Home society, will be in charge of the service which will begin at 3 p.m. The dedication address will be given by the Rev. Dr. A. J. Munsterman, superintendent of the society. The Rev. Erich Bizer of Frankfort will read the scripture and other pastors in the area will have part on the program, as well as the music furnished by churches of that denomination in the area.

After the service open house will be held affording all in attendance to see the fine appointments and facilities which this home offers. The Women's guild of the Peotone Immanuel church will be in charge of the refreshments. Everyone in the area is invited to the service.

Meyer Family Holds Reunion At Mokena

The Rev. William Meyer reunion held at Mokena July 3, 4, brought visitors here from distant places. Mokena was chosen as the site for the reunion because of its central location and the fact that Mrs. William Riemann, wife of the pastor of St. John's church of Mokena is a daughter of the late Rev. Mr. Meyer.

On Sunday the visitors attended St. John's church in a body, where the Rev. Walter H. Meyer, youngest member of the family, of Truman, Kans., delivered the sermon at the 10:45 service. Thirty-four members of the family then attended a dinner, served in the church parlors. The village park was utilized by the younger members for recreation.

Among those present were the Rev. and Mrs. Armin Meyer of India; Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer, Lansdowne, Pa.; the Rev. and Mrs. Karl Meyer of Chicago; the Rev. and Mrs. Walter H. Meyer; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Meyer, of Minneapolis; Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Meyer, of Fairbault, Minn.; and Mrs. Hannah Meyer, of Washington, D.C. were unable to attend.

Early Land Prices
In Mokena Still
Can Make Money

What is the prevailing price per acre for land in the Mokena area?

To know what the prices are today may be useful to those contemplating building or farming but there is no prize offered for the display of such knowledge.

However, the person who knows what the going price per acre was in the early days has a chance to earn a dollar. All that he, or she, has to do is telephone Mrs. Fred Lehmann at Mokena 4561 before anyone else does and the dollar is his or hers, as the case may be.

That is the question served up by the Mokena Homecoming committee for this week, what was the going price for an acre of land in Mokena in the early days?

Last week's question—"On what day were electric lights first turned on in Mokena?"—was answered by Mrs. John Marti who called Mrs. Lehmann 10 minutes after the News-Bulletin hit the street.

The answer was Jan. 6, 1913. Questions concerning early events in the history of Mokena will appear each week in the News-Bulletin.

Pastor Recovering
After Operation

The Rev. William J. Riemann, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church in Mokena has returned home from St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, where he underwent surgery a week ago Tuesday, June 28. He is reported to be making an excellent recovery.

Hire New Business Education Teacher
At Lincoln-Way

Miss Arlene Rittenhouse was recently employed at the Lincoln-Way to assist in the business education department. She will teach all of the beginning typing classes and bookkeeping.

Miss Rittenhouse graduated at Illinois State Normal university and is taking her graduate work at the University of Illinois. She taught two years in the Piper

Arlene Rittenhouse

City high school in Illinois and this past year in her home town of Bement, Ill.

Miss Rittenhouse replaces Mrs. Eugenia Davis who resigned at the close of the school year. Mrs. Davis had devoted part of her time to the office work and taught two typing classes. Since more students are enrolled in the department next year and two additional courses are to be offered, a full time teacher was needed.

BOY SCOUTS TO ENTER CAMP AT MORRIS SUNDAY

The Boy Scouts of Troop 40, Mokena, are making their last check on camping equipment and plans for that big week at the Morris Boy Scout reservation. The group will enter camp Sunday, July 10.

They reserved "Ranger" camp site early last winter as soon as the reservations were opened, and have been itching to get going ever since. This is the best campsite on the reservation and is sought after by many other troops.

The following scouts will attend, Robert Munch, Hassen Wagner, Charles Kelch, John Kropp, Ken and Ray Lorenz, Gordon Richardson, James Miller and Dan Williams. Ted Dunham and A. O. Omland, the scoutmaster will be in charge. Mrs. Omland and Dorothy Ruth will go along as well, as they have arranged for quarters at the family lodge. Two more scouts hope to go, but their registration has not been completed.

The boys will participate in all phases of scouting, including boating, canoeing and fishing in the lake, bird, star and nature hikes, swimming in that nice big clear pool and winding up the day around the "good old camp fire."

Such experiences should carry memories that will remain with these boys throughout their lives, it was pointed out.

Bremen G.O.P. Will Hold Annual Picnic
Sunday, July 10

The annual Bremen township Republican picnic is to be held Sunday, July 10 at Saenger's Grove and according to J. Clare Moore, G.O.P. committeeman for Bremen, a large crowd is expected.

The picnic is being sponsored by the Bremen township Republican organization and Mrs. Caroline Moore, wife of the Committeeman Moore, is in charge of arrangements.

There will be prizes and awards for various competitions and games; rides for the youngsters; dancing and of course there will be several speeches.

Expect Big Crowd

Office holders, candidates and possible candidates are expected.

The annual Bremen Republican picnic has always been well attended as it not only draws from G.O.P. supporters in Bremen township but from surrounding communities as well.

The affair is open to the public and those in charge urge people to come out, spend the day and visit with friends and neighbors and make new acquaintances.

Among those assisting Mrs. Moore in making arrangements for the picnic are, Florence Henschel, Thurl Whetstone, Marie Whetstone, Lola Hayn, W. J. Rhode, Lou Payan, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hedeon, George Berg, William Shrank, Bud Christie and Louise Dudek.

PAUL OHMAN WILL SPEAK AT LIONS DINNER

Paul Ohman, county probation and juvenile court officer of Will county, is to be the speaker tonight (Thursday) at the regular July dinner meeting of the Mokena Lions club, it was announced by its president, Ramon Westlund.

The dinner is to be held at the Lincolnwood Drive-In on Route 30, and is scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock.

The Mokena Lions club is vitally interested in the youth of the area, Mokena, it was pointed out, has been fortunate in that it has had few cases of juvenile delinquency with which to contend. The Lions club would keep it that way.

Members of the organization, a spokesman said, have been wanting to hear someone speak on youth problems that is familiar with it and knows whereof he speaks.

Not An Exact Science

To that end Mr. Westlund invited Paul Ohman to speak. Mr. Ohman has been dealing with domestic relations cases for many years as a part of his duties. The county court not only handles the cases involving juveniles in Will county but in many instances family discord and juvenile delinquency and dependency go hand in hand.

Thru his years of experience in handling such matters, Mr. Ohman has become as much an authority as one can on such a subject. Human relations cannot be turned into an exact science it was pointed out, but are forever coming up with situations to confound the experts. And with this Mr. Ohman agrees.

St. Mary's Graduates
Hold Reunion; Honor
Former Teacher

Graduates of St. Mary's school in Mokena, representing classes of 1952-53 and 54, held a first reunion and party.

Guest of honor at the party was Sister M. Charlotte, O. S. F., the former teacher. After former pupils presented her with a gift in token of their appreciation for all that she had done for them. Sister Charlotte also was the recipient of a beautifully decorated cake, inscribed, "To A Wonderful Teacher."

There were games and dancing. Refreshments were served by Rosemarie Munch and Rosemary Dempsey. Others present were Michael Clegg, Robert Olson, Terry Marshall, Ann Henneberry, Arlene Clegg, Ronald Guendling, Therese Shunko, Diane Sorenson, Thomas Miller, Joyce Klinger, William Klinger, Carol Marti, Nancy Ormin, Barbara Muehler, Sharon Kuckenbecker, and the pastor, Father Cecil.

Kiwanis Chorus
Wins New Laurels
At Nat'l. Conclave

The Kiwanis club chorus of Chicago Heights, directed by Arthur Lambrecht of Frankfort, has returned from Cleveland where they sang at the annual international Kiwanis convention.

The convention lasted four days and the chorus sang on several occasions during that period. Thirty-two members of the group made the trip, traveling by special car.

The chorus won considerable acclaim at the convention and had it heeded the demands of the delegates would have been singing around the clock each of the four days of the convention.

L-W PROVIDES EXPERIMENTAL LAND SET-UP FOR AG. COURSE

There are many high schools, most of them in fact, that have courses in agriculture but at Lincoln-Way the students not only study texts on farming methods but put the teaching into practice.

As a result the school has been added to the Will County Soil Conservation district's list of cooperators. Besides Lincoln-Way there are three institutions in the county—the county farm, the arsenal and the honor farm, where phases of planning carrying out conservation practices are planned or are in operation.

Have 60 Acres

At Lincoln-Way there are approximately 60 acres that are being put to use by the agriculture classes under the direction of the vocational agriculture instructor, Robert Van Rhee.

The land has not been in use for several years and the soil was found to be in need of treatment. The terrain is rolling so that erosion is a special problem.

DISTRICT NOW IN NEW LENOX

The Lynk school district has been annexed to the New Lenox grade school district.

Lynk school building is located on Maple road, near the Cedar road intersection. It's enrollment has been increasing and would have been approximately 20 in September and with prospects of increasing.

At a meeting of the Will county board of school trustees held last night in the courthouse at Joliet, only three persons discussed the subject and they were all in accord with the plan to annex the Lynk district to New Lenox district.

Joseph Liberty, one of the members of the Lynk school board, Stanley Ekedahl, secretary of the New Lenox board, and Andrew Scuteri, who lives on Golf rd. and has children attending school, were the three to speak in behalf of annexation. No one appeared against it. The trustees voted unanimously to allow the petition and Lynk district is now a part of the New Lenox grade school district.

Pupils will be furnished transportation.

Schmuhl People to Vote

The New Lenox district may be enlarged further if the people of Schmuhl district vote Sunday to petition the county board of school trustees to annex to the New Lenox district.

The Schmuhl residents are to meet at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Lincoln-Way high school cafeteria to receive a report of a survey committee supervised by a field service committee of the University of Illinois. This report, it was stated, will recommend that the Schmuhl district be annexed to the New Lenox school district. The Schmuhl school, which now has approximately 45 pupils, according to County superintendent Verne E. Crackel, and has to make use of the basement as a classroom. School authorities are opposed to this, Mr. Crackel said. The school has two teachers, each having four grades.

In five years time it is expected that the enrollment at Schmuhl will reach 70. Supt. Crackel said, which would necessitate a new addition to the school and more teachers. The Schmuhl site is not large enough for such expansion, it was pointed out, and a building program would cause the district to bond itself to its limit.

Another district that may petition later for annexation to New Lenox district is the Francis school on Francis road. Improvement of that thoroughfare will cause the enrollment of the district to grow, it was stated.

OPENS RESTAURANT

Frank and Cora Nickowski of Chicago who have recently purchased the former O'Conner home in Lincoln Estates, located on route 30 next to the Midwest store, has reconverted it into a restaurant.

They have named their new business "The Hut" and will hold grand opening this Saturday and Sunday. They state they have surprises for all who attend the opening. Their ad in this issue lists their specials.

A long face often shortens your list of friends.

With the capture of 21-year-old Carl - Eddie - Hart of Frankfort in a stick-up, Will county authorities are investigating the possibility that he has been the "finger" for a number of safe burglaries in the area.

Hart, who is credited with having engineered the attempted robbery at the Honiotes Brothers super-market in Joliet last Saturday morning, denies participation in any other crimes in Will county.

The burglaries in which safes were looted of substantial amounts were successful but the attempted hold-up at the Honiotes store last Saturday morning shortly after midnight, ended in disaster for the bandits. Three of them, including Hart, are in the county jail where they are being held on charges of armed robbery.

The fourth bandit, Ralph Baker, 24, of Davenport, Ia., is dead. He died Monday afternoon at St. Joseph hospital as a result of gunshot wounds. Baker, who was married and the father of two children, tried to kill Joliet police officer Donald Zier, when the latter and two fellow officers, Fred Padley and Ray Stahl, surprised the armed robbers in the store.

Buckshot is Lethal

As Baker swung his pistol to shoot, Zier twisted his body so that only his side presented a target. This move saved his life. Had Zier not turned he would have been shot in the heart. As it was the bullet gouged a track across his left chest and nicked his right elbow.

Zier, who had a shotgun at the ready squeezed the trigger. Police use shells loaded with double-O buckshot. There are nine pellets to the shell. Five of the pellets found their mark. One passed completely thru the calf of Baker's leg, two lodged deeply in his thigh and two penetrated the abdomen with fatal results. Baker was in surgery for more than four hours and doctors tried to repair the damage. One of his kidneys was so badly torn it had to be removed. His other kidney and liver, the bladder and the intestines also were damaged.

Zier has been released from the hospital.

Hart, too, probably would have ended up on a slab in the morgue but for the fact that when he attempted to run after his pal Baker was downed, he took a direction that put Zier between himself and Officer Padley so that the latter was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting Zier.

Others Surrender

Hart stopped and begged for mercy and when ordered to do so promptly laid down on the floor with his arms extended. The other two bandits, Raymond Gordon, 24, of Davenport, and Larry Winfield, 19, of Rock Island, fled when the shooting occurred and took refuge in a rear room that houses an air compressor and some other machines. Later they surrendered and came backing out with their hands in the air, and water streaming from their eyes as a result of several charges of tear gas loosed in the place by Sheriff Roy Doerfler. Incidentally one of the men in coming out backed right against the muzzle of a pistol held by the sheriff.

Baker, Gordon and Winfield were each armed with a pistol. Hart was carrying a sawed-off shotgun. All wore the tops of black nylon stockings pulled down over their faces as masks.

Hart's companions, questioned at the county jail by Sheriff Doerfler and State's Attorney Frank Masters, Jr., were quoted as saying that he planned the job.

According to the statements, Gordon and Winfield went to Baker's home at Davenport Friday afternoon and left there about 4 o'clock in response to instructions and arrived at Hart's home in Frankfort around 7:30 and picked him up. They drove around in the vicinity of the Honiotes store about 9 o'clock, looking the place over. About midnight they parked their car a couple of blocks away and came to the store on foot.

Safe Tools in Car

When the car was searched police found tools there of the type used in safe burglaries. Investigators say it is possible that they had originally planned to burglarize the place but on finding one of the owners, John Honiotes and two employees working so late, became impatient and decided on a hold-up.

It was midnight when Hart and Baker stepped up to the front door of the store just as John Honiotes was about to leave. At gunpoint they forced him to the office at the rear of the store and there ordered the two employees to raise their hands.

One of them was made to open a rear door to admit Winfield and Gordon. Honiotes was compelled to open the safe. After the door was opened his wrists were bound behind him with adhesive tape. It was while Honiotes was being made to open the safe that a brother, Peter Honiotes, who lives nearby returned to the store for something he had forgotten. When Pete found the front door unlocked he became suspicious and entered quietly. He crept to the rear of the store and there glimpsed the scene that was being enacted in the office.

Pete kept his head, a fact on which he was warmly commended by the sheriff, and dropping to his knees crawled to the front of the store, a considerable distance, and crouching down behind a counter, telephoned police. The call was recorded at the police station at 12:37. Desk Sergeant Matthew Hartford radioed the alarm to all squads.

Await Grand Jury Action

Padley and Stahl, with Zier as a passenger - he was off duty - were only a couple of blocks from the store and were at the place within a few seconds. Within the next three minutes a dozen squads, city and county were on the scene and shortly afterwards all the bandit crew was in custody.

Gordon and Baker both have records according to Davenport police and Hart has a record too. Authorities say he admitted being on parole from Iowa where he was given a five year sentence for a tavern robbery at Bettendorf. Hart said he couldn't remember whether the robbery was in 1951 or 1952. His two companions in that robbery drew 10 year sentences. Hart also is wanted at Davenport on a charge of attempted extortion and police there say he is the leader of a gang of thieves in the tri-city area.

The case will be presented to the grand jury by State's Attorney Masters in September.

Phyllis Mae Bettenhausen of Tinley Becomes Bride of Paul Douglas Ebeling

Phyllis Mae Bettenhausen and Paul Douglas Ebeling were united in marriage before a palm and flower banked altar in the Tinley Park Methodist church at 4:00 p.m. Saturday, July 2nd. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Bettenhausen of Tinley Park and the groom, a resident of the Orland Park, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Ebeling. The Rev. Glen Ames officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The pews were decorated with large bows. Lighters of the candelabra were Allen Lindemann, cousin of the bride, and Philip Ebeling, cousin of the groom.

Miss Alice Ginther, organist, also accompanied Mr. Royal Glahn who sang "Oh Promise Me" and "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a pure white embroidered nylon tulle, long sleeved, two-tiered gown with scalloped neck and long train. A tiara held the veil of net which was appliqued with embroidery rose buds, same as the dress. The bride's bouquet was an original design, a tri-cornered style of white roses and spathophila.

Lovely Gowns
The maid of honor, Miss Gloria Bettenhausen, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of yellow crystal and net, a picture hat and carried a crescent style bouquet of blue carnations. The bridesmaids were dressed exactly like the maid of honor except their gowns were blue and they carried bouquets of yellow carnations.

ILLINOIS FARMERS' OUTLOOK

by L. H. Simerl
Dept. Agricultural Economics
U. of I.

Prices of farmland in the mid-west show little sign of agricultural depression. Prices of farms in eight midwest states rose substantially from last November to March, while those in four other states declined slightly. During the year ending with March, the dollar value of farmland went up in ten of the states and down in only two. These facts are shown in a recent report on the farm real estate market by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Illinois: The USDA report shows that land values in Illinois, eased off 1 percent from November to March. At the March level, prices were 2 percent higher than a year ago and 32 percent higher than five years ago. Some unofficial reports indicate that the market for Illinois farmland in recent weeks has been firm to stronger.

Other midwest states—Missouri, Wisconsin and North Dakota—show a decrease of 1 percent in prices of farmland from November to March. Only two states—Wisconsin and North Dakota—had lower prices in March than the year before. Each showed a decline of 2 percent from March 1954 to March 1955.

Price increases for farmland in ten midwest states for the 12 months ending with March ranged from 2 to 7 percent. Increases for individual states were: Illinois and Missouri, 2 percent; Kansas and South Dakota, 3 percent; Michigan, 4 percent; Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota, 6 percent; and Indiana and Ohio, 7 percent.

National averages: For the U. S. as a whole, farm real estate values in March increased 1 percent over last November and 2 percent over March a year ago.

Who is buying farmland? In the U. S. as a whole, 70 percent of the buyers are farmers and 30 percent are nonfarmers. About 38 percent of the farms are paid for in cash and 62 percent are bought on credit.

Are farmland prices too high? Many people think so, but only Father Time will provide a final answer. In the meantime it is interesting to compare prices of farmland with farm earnings.

At present prices, average land values in the United States are about 7½ times the net farm income for one year. Land values are higher in relation to farm income than they have been at any time since 1941. On the other hand, they are lower in comparison with farm income than they were in most of the years 1911 through 1940.

Farm values average 8.4 times income: Lowest prices of farmland in comparison with farm income occurred in 1943, when land values were only 4.7 times net income. Highest prices in comparison with farm income were in 1933, when they were 15.2 times net income. When we study all 44 years of record, we find that farmland values average 8.4 times annual net farm income.

Perhaps we can get a better picture of the relative value of farmland by comparing the combined values of real estate, machinery and livestock with farm income. The value of all of these items at recent prices is about ten times the net farm income for one year, which is about equal to the long-time average.

The facts listed above do not seem to give much support to the popular view that land is overpriced.

he adds. "It doesn't shorten cooking time appreciably and only squeezes out the flavor juices."

Other advice given by Smith to the male amateurs who want to win the grudging praise of their spouses at back yard picnics and the likes.

Don't use over-ground meat. The meat should never be ground more than twice, and for extra-tender, juicier patties, try single-ground meat.

Start with a sizzling pan if you use one. This gives a quick coat to the bottom of the patty and seals in the meat juices.

Turn only once to prevent juice escape.

For ease in turning, use a wide spatula.

Are Muscle Builders

Hamburgers have risen to their deserved place as first class, main course food, Smith observes. They're high in muscle-building protein, iron, and the B-vitamins, and are one of the most economical meat courses you can serve.

"But remember that hamburger meat can be sensitive as a prima ballerina," he cautions the men. "Mistreat it, and you're in for an unsatisfactory performance. Be kind to hamburgers, and they'll win you praise as a first-class cook."

BETTER MANAGEMENT BRING HIGHER RETURNS

Better management of your farm woodlands will help you to get the highest returns at the least cost.

L. B. Culver, extension forester at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that several aspects of management affect efficiency in production. They are proportion of cull trees, stocking, quality of material grown, growth rates and marketing procedures.

You should girdle or cut down cull trees. If there's no market for fireplace wood, girdling is cheaper and less damaging to other trees than felling.

It's also important that you maintain a well-stocked stand by preventing fire in the woods, by keeping livestock out of the timber and by intelligent cutting, Culver says.

A well-stocked stand is necessary to grow quality material that will be more valuable at harvest time. Highest quality trees should grow to larger diameter than those of lower quality.

Another way to realize higher profits at harvest time is to cut costs by doing the work yourself. One big advantage of timber harvest is that you can do it in an off-season when other farm work is at a minimum. Harvesting valuable timber yourself also yields a high labor return for the hours you do put in on it, running as high as from one to two dollars an hour.

MAKE SURE YOUR DAIRY PASTURE WILL LAST

Don't get caught short on your dairy pasture this summer, advises J. D. Burke, dairy extension specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

One of the highest yielding pastures in a grass-legume seedling such as alfalfa-bromegrass. Allowing an acre per animal unit, this type pasture should carry your herd through May, June and part of July.

You'll probably need more pasture in July, August and September.

Sudan grass makes a good emergency pasture for these late summer months. Seeded a week after corn planting, it will be ready for grazing the last half of July. It should last through August and September.

Pasturing aftermath or second growth from early cut hay or grass silage is another way to round out the summer pasture program.

Bluegrass will furnish good early pasture, but it will burn up in hot, dry weather. It takes deep rooted legumes and sudan grass to survive through summer months.

Your county farm adviser or the University of Illinois can help you with your summer pasture problems. You can get circular 553, "Supplementing and Improving Dairy Pasture," and circular 703, "Five Steps in Pasture Improvement," from your adviser or by writing the College of Agriculture, Urbana.

MOSQUITO FIGHTERS WATCH WEATHER IN WAR ON PESTS

No garden party hostess ever scanned the skies with greater concern for rain clouds than does Oscar Loop, entomologist of the South Cook County Mosquito Abatement district. Although much is known about the effects of weather on mosquito production, until the district acquires its own first hand experience the local variations peculiar to this area remain unknown.

Daily rainfall records are kept from three points within the district—in North, Palos and Thornton townships. Records from these three stations show considerable variation in rainfall even though they are not more than 15 miles from each other. Thru the first twelve days of June, for instance, the Palos station registered 3.47 inches; the North station, 2.33; and 2.88 at the Thornton station.

In addition to these stations, daily reports are received from official weather observers at Antioch, and Kenosha. These are located in the headwaters of the Des Plaines river and observations there are very important to this district. About four days after as much as a two-inch rainfall there, the nine mile section of the Des Plaines river lying along the northwest boundary of the district can be expected to crest, creating flooding conditions necessary for the production of the vicious floodwater mosquito that gives residents of the district so much trouble.

Temperature Factor Too

A one-inch rain anywhere in the district may be sufficient to trigger the production process, provided the topsoil is pretty well saturated. The rainfall deficiency in early May meant that the more than three inches of rain which fell during the last ten days of that month simply soaked into the ground or ran off but did not form pools to any great extent, however, subsequent rain in June has increased the number of such breeding sites by leaps and bounds.

The non-porous nature of the subsoil in this area causes trouble for the mosquito abatement district just as it has for individual property owners and drainage engineers for many years.

Temperature is another important weather factor in mosquito production. With the temperatures that have prevailed since June, when the recent rains stopped, the vexans mosquito will grow from the egg to the wiggler to the tumbler to the adult and begin to move out in about 10 or 12 days. Later in the summer when temperatures are higher this interval may be shortened.

Wind force and direction coupled with the right atmospheric conditions play their role in the distribution of mosquitoes, especially in the case of a strong flyer like the particularly objectionable species, Aedes vexans, that can take advantage of such conditions to travel considerable distances.

We have all observed that we are most severely bitten in the hours around sunset when the breeze is slight and the humidity is relatively high. Why this should be so, and what causes a mosquito population to move, are questions that trouble the entomologist. The answer to these and other important biological questions will enable the district to do a better job in each succeeding year.

Hope Lies Ahead

Daily catches from the fifteen light traps spotted throughout the district provide additional information on mosquito distribution. To date, nine of the thirty or so species of mosquitoes known to be in Northern Illinois have been picked up in the traps. Aedes vexans accounts for by far the largest numbers taken, and Culex pipiens, the common house mosquito, shows up in second largest numbers. Night biting tests made at the light trap sites will add to the trapping evidence. Local weather variations are a factor in the different light trap results observed on a day to day basis.

A relatively high county may be obtained from the stations in Chicago Heights and Flossmoor, for example, on a night when almost no mosquitoes are picked about 40 percent of the land area of Japan was owned by non-residents. At the end of 1950 thirty million parcels of land had been distributed to individuals. Credit corporations were set up to finance the individual farmers. Ladejinsky's program worked and was a complete answer to the Communists. Just why he was ousted is hard to understand. This land program was more effective than bullets in stopping Communism. Because this man was Russian-born has no bearing on his ability nor on his loyalty to the United States.

In direct contrast to the land program in Japan under Ladejinsky—when the Communists wanted land to distribute under their system, they liquidated the owners and parceled out the land, keeping the title in the state. They then lease the land to the landless, but the farmer who got it found himself paying too much to his landlord—the state—for the right to work the soil.

There are two schools of thought in the world today. The one school insists that the state is supreme, the individual having only those rights granted by the state. The other school insists that the individual is supreme, the state deriving its powers from the consent of the governed.

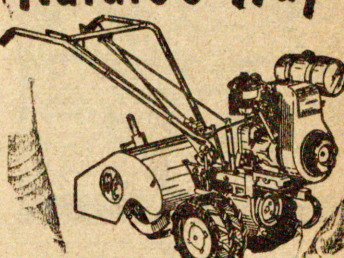

State supremacy is an atheistic concept. Supremacy of the individual is a Christian concept, founded upon a belief in God as the Father of mankind.

Either the individual is supreme or the state is supreme; either there is a God or there is no God. It is as simple as that.

Careful Men! That Hamburger Meat Is Sensitive Stuff!

Someone should organize a "Be Kind to Hamburgers" drive to protect the millions of hamburgers in danger of being ruined over these summer weekends by rough treatment at the hands of overeager male barbecuers.

That's the feeling of a man who ranks as a true hamburger expert—Sidney Smith, general manager of a snack shop chain. The restaurants under his management sold more than five million hamburgers last year.

"Men should be more gentle with hamburger meat," Smith declared. "Mauling and kneading in shaping patties breaks up the meat's delicate cell structure and squeezes out taste-giving juices. The result is a dry, flavorless burger."

Be Gentle

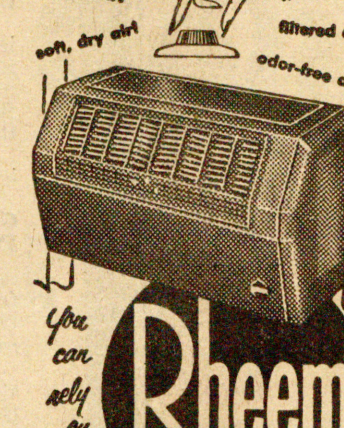

So pat the patties gently into shape, he advises outdoor grill fans, and handle with care from the time the meat leaves the grinder or you pick it up ready ground from the butcher.

GUARD AGAINST ANEMIA IN BABY PIGS

Keep your early baby pigs from getting anemia if you can. Once stunted by anemia they never catch up.

Richard Hollandbeck, extension livestock specialist at the University of Illinois, College of Agriculture, says early pigs staying inside a central farrowing house during cold weather are most likely victims of anemia.

To help prevent it, Hollandbeck suggests that you put one or two shovels of worm-free sod in the pens or houses where the pigs can root and get iron from the soil. Some producers also sprinkle the sod with a solution of a pound of coppers in three quarts of water.

You can also swab this solution once a day on the sow's udders where the pigs can get some extra iron when they feed.

There's another advantage to the sod if your scatter some creep ration on it. That will start the pigs eating earlier which will also help them to better fight off disease.

If your baby pigs develop diarrhea, vomit, refuse to eat and lose weight quickly, suspect TGE, says Dr. C. C. Morrill of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Illinois.

The veterinarian points out that transmissible gastroenteritis (TGE) is a highly contagious disease that has caused severe death losses in herds where it has struck.

In pigs under 10 days of age the disease has been almost 100 per cent fatal. Older pigs are more likely to survive. Shoats or fattening and breeding animals may also be affected but usually recover quickly.

The disease was first reported in Illinois in 1947 but has since been diagnosed in many parts of the state. It has wiped out the entire pig crop on some farms but to date has been too scattered to threaten the state's

GEN. McARTHUR SENDS MESSAGE

Former General of the Army Douglas McArthur sent greetings to the Disabled American Veterans at their recent Illinois convention. The convention, held at Aurora, is over but the words of Gen. McArthur, in the form of a letter, reproduced here as a message to every American, should live forever.

"Dear Commander Isaacson:

"Please extend my cordial greetings to my comrades-in-arms assembled in convention at Aurora. Tell them that the country's need for their selfless and devoted service was never greater than it is now when strange voices throughout the land plead for a doctrine alien to our proud American traditions and subversion of our great American heritage - a doctrine which would deny patriotism and bring into disrepute that spirit of healthy nationalism for which they gave their blood while holding aloft our country's flag on the battlefield.

"Tell them that we must remain invincibly true to those noble precepts which have guided our country's past and firmly reject philosophies which would lead us toward the surrender or dilution of our sovereignty and independence under the illusory guise that we cannot longer survive alone but must at any cost search for our own protection, band together with others in the

"Tell them that so long as our cause is just and so long as our hearts are fired with the indomitable will to sustain that cause, we need have no fear - our cause will prevail and we will be left in peace. Tell them that only when our country has faltered, only when it lacked the will to win the battles forced upon it, only when it permitted others with impunity to molest our citizens, abuse our soldiers and otherwise trample upon our national dignity and self-respect, has our national existence been imperiled and our future rested on doubt.

"Tell them that we have the inherent strength which no international predatory force would dare to challenge so long as we have the will to employ its fullest potential in defense of our liberties and the right to live in serenity and peace.

Cordially yours,
(Signed) Douglas McArthur

Hits New High in Oil Production in Arabia

An all-time high in its history of oil production was reached in 1954 by the Arabian American Oil Co., which released today its report of operations covering last year's activities. The report, printed in color in both English and Arabic outlined the part the company played in Saudi Arabia's social and economic life as well as the benefits provided for employees, included higher wages and a shorter work week. Ninety thousand copies of the 122 page report were sent out as first class mail.

Production of crude oil in 1954 totaled 347,844,850 barrels, the Aramco report showed. This record yield represented a gain of 39,550,805 barrels over the previous twelve-month period. Last year, the daily output averaged 953,000 barrels. At one point during May, more than a million barrels were produced each calendar day. In 1953, daily production amounted to an average of 844,642 barrels.

A total of 79,844,596 barrels of crude oil were refined last year at the Company's installation near the Persian Gulf. Total output there in 1953 was 74,559,672 barrels.

Basal treatment of 2, 4, 5-T completely killed unwanted sycamore trees in experiments at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

Biggest disadvantage of hauling fresh-cut forage to dairy cows is the large amount of labor involved.

The Well Dressed Meter Reader Wears

Northern Illinois Gas Co. readers (left to right) Wayne Gallinger, Minooka; John Vallrugo, 612 Bush Street, Joliet; William Bonucci, Jr., Coal City, and Ronald Sly, West 16th Street, Lockport, model new uniforms they are wearing as they read the utility's meters in this area. Separate gas and electric readings began here recently.

Local Northern Illinois Gas Co. customers should have no trouble from now on identifying the meter readers. They're wearing smartly-styled new uniforms designated as standard issue for all of the gas company's meter readers.

Air force blue in color, the complete ensemble includes a light blue shirt, dark blue tie, and a company-identifying insignia on blouse and cap. During the summer, short-sleeved light blue sport shirts, bearing the company insignia, will be worn by the meter readers.

According to D. F. Davis, district superintendent for the gas utility, the introduction of the company's uniformed meter readers in this area marks the complete separation here of heretofore joint gas and electric meter reading activities.

cause I like voting to raise taxes, but because our cities and schools must have financial relief.

The new tax laws will raise the necessary money but they will hurt the chances of cities to expand and the business of city merchants.

If a city levies a one half sales tax people living and shopping in unincorporated fringe areas will be understandably reluctant to have their area annexed into the taxing city.

Merchants in cities levying the tax will lose trade to those doing business in areas without the tax.

Granting the tax increase was necessary, the rules of fair play indicated that everyone should bear the same burden.

Although the tax increases are scheduled to expire within two years, past records on such laws indicate they may be with us for a long time.

Another measure in the present tax program would allow cities to place a five per cent tax on the gross receipts of public utilities. The way the law is drafted the tax bill will be passed along to the users of gas, electricity and telephones.

I also oppose this measure and attempted to have it killed on the floor of the house last week.

This is an added tax that hits the home owner directly. It goes beyond the needs for money that have been claimed for cities and schools.

You pay a property tax on your home and a sales tax on your food. This bill places a five per cent tax on the fuel to heat your home and cook your food.

This tax measure faces rough opposition than the sales tax bills. However, with strong backing from the Governor and the Mayor of Chicago, its chances of passage are good.

It is not pleasant or politically wise to oppose measures sponsored by leaders of your own party. I do not enjoy doing it but as a legislative representative of the people that elected me I can only vote in the way that seems to represent their best interests.

State taxes will go on increasing as long as state services increase. The taxpayer's best hope is that a revision of the revenue article, scheduled for a vote in 1956, will distribute the tax burden in a more fair and equitable manner.

One Baby For Parents; Other Two For Export
In London a young husband paced the floor of the waiting room at a maternity home. Finally a nurse came in.

"You're the father of triplets," she reported. "Three beautiful girls. Would you like to pick the one you want to keep now?"

"One!" exclaimed the father. "Why only one? Can't we keep them all?"

"Under the present government regulations," the nurse explained, "one is for you and two for export." - Pathfinder News Magazine.

Background Scripture: Habakkuk.
Devotional Reading: Habakkuk 3:2-4, 17-19.

God In Dark Days

Lesson for July 10, 1955

SOMETIMES we envy the serene faith of the prophets of old. If so, it shows we have not read the prophets carefully, for some of them had a faith that was anything but serene. Jeremiah was one of those. Habakkuk was another. Habakkuk lived during the dark days at the end of the time of the little kingdom of Judah. Reading his opening lines, one might think he had been reading our morning papers in 1955. "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention arise. So law is slackened and justice goes forth..." Why does God let such things go on?

This Is Hard To Believe

Habakkuk asked the same question; and got an answer from God that the Lord told him he would hardly believe. Not only was the local scene, in Jerusalem and Judea, dark with violence and injustice, but the farther horizon was darker still. Out of the east the newly resurgent Babylonian empire was rising. Now empires seldom rise peacefully. They come to power with the uproar and the agonies of war. Empires arise by crushing smaller kingdoms, and Babylon was no exception. If you had asked any wide-awake Hebrew of Habakkuk's time, "What is the greatest national danger you see threatening your country?" he would probably have said: "The imperial ambitions of Babylon." Most Hebrews would have said that the Babylonians, or Chaldeans as they are often called, were the enemies of God's people. But Habakkuk is told something God says is hard to believe: "I am rousing the Chaldeans." That bitter, hasty, terrible, violent, godless nation, whose only god was their own might, - God was arousing that nation to punish Judah for Judah's sins. What was God going to do about the violence and injustice in Judah? He was going to wipe it out, wipe it off the face of the ground... and use the Chaldeans to do it with.

Is The Remedy Worse Than The Disease?

We can see from reading the second part of Habakkuk's first chapter, that he could not understand, at first, how God could do such a thing as arousing the Chaldeans. How can God use devilish men to accomplish divine purposes? Is it conceivable that a God who is the Holy One, who cannot look on wrong, - is it conceivable that such a God would be silent while the ruthless and cruel armies of the invaders were capturing men and treasure, cities and villages, as a fisherman takes everything in his net? Nevertheless it has often been true that God's good purpose has been set forward by men who did not know nor obey him. When Joseph's brothers sold him into Egypt as a slave, they intended no good by it. Their only motives were greed, cruelty, jealousy and revenge. But God brought good out of it. War is a terrible thing; but as Lincoln suggested, it is quite possible to believe that the horrors of a civil war are God's way of punishing a nation for the injustice of slavery. If a nation will not listen to its true prophets and repent, God can use sterner measures.

Faith Endures
Habakkuk, pursuing bravely his questioning of God, comes out at last to two illuminating thoughts which the Lord gave him. (It may be noted in passing that sometimes the questioning mind gets answered when the questioning mind does not.) One is that in dark days, when God is not to be seen, the man of faith must wait. "God does not settle all his accounts in October." The answer to life's riddles is not always given immediately. God's signature can be seen at the end, though not always do we recognize his handwriting at first. The other thought was this: The man of faith must not give up his faith. For faith has the power of enduring life. God may use a "bitter and hasty nation" to punish another sinful one. But God judges all nations, Chaldeans and Judeans alike. Seen in the light of history, we can perceive as a fact what Habakkuk could see only with his inward eye: that the God-defying conquering Chaldean nation would vanish soon without a trace, while the little conquered people of the Hebrews would survive, because in them was the undying seed of faith. NO TRUCE IN WAR BETWEEN MAN, INSECT

This article was prepared by entomologists of the Illinois natural history survey, University of Illinois college of agriculture, and cooperating agencies and concern current insect information.

Corn Borer: Because cool weather from June 4 to June 14 delayed development, the situation is more favorable for the borer than was anticipated 10 days ago.

North of highway 6, moth emergence ranges from 85 per cent in the west to 60 per cent near Lake Michigan. Egg-laying is near the peak, and moth emergence should have been completed last week. Most advanced field corn in this area should be examined regularly late this week. It probably will be necessary to treat the most advanced fields this week.

DDT, 1 1/2 pounds per acre, is recommended for corn borer control.

In the northern area, early-planted fields of canning sweet corn probably need treatment now, if it hasn't been given already.

To control roppers, use toxaphene at 1 1/2 pounds or dieldrin at 1/4 pound per acre. Either one will continue to kill newly emerging hoppers for about two weeks. If hoppers have migrated throughout hay fields, use aldrin or hoptachlor at the rate of 2 ounces per acre. Either can be applied to within 15 days of harvest, while 30 days must elapse between treatment and harvest when dieldrin is used and 40 days with toxaphene.

Chinch bugs: In some instances this pest is abundant on small corn where wheat, rye, or some other grass crop was plowed under. Dieldrin, 1/2 pound per acre, will give effective control and will continue to kill bugs that

AMERICA'S RIGHTS COME FROM GOD, FOUNDERS DECLARE

By Rev. James Keller,
Director of the Christophers

Last year the mayor of a large eastern city read the Declaration of Independence at a July 4 celebration. In his reading he left out all the references to God as the source of our rights—he skipped over the whole basis for the document!

Too often today in our classrooms, the Declaration of Independence is referred to as if it were only of historical importance. Sometimes it is presented only as a list of grievances against the British King.

But the essence of the Declaration is an appeal to God, the Author of life and of all human rights, to justify the rebellion. Thomas Jefferson in his first draft of the Declaration, gave full prominence to God as the source of our rights and equality. But the Congress itself went even farther.

To Jefferson's words they added an appeal to God as "the Supreme Judge of the World." In the last sentence of Jefferson's draft, congress added the phrase, "with a firm reliance on divine Providence." This action of our Founding Fathers shows that God and religion are the basis for our government. The Declaration of Independence answers those who would seek come into contact with the residue for 7 to 10 days.

Armyworms: Occasional fields are still infested, and in some instances the worms have migrated into corn fields. Dieldrin at 1/4 pound or toxaphene at 1 1/2 to 2 pounds effectively controls this insect.

Elm leaf beetle: The leaves of American elms and particularly Chinese elms are being skeletonized by the yellow and black larvae of the elm leaf beetle. To prevent further defoliation, spray the trees with lead arsenate, 4 pounds to 100 gallons of water (one heaping tablespoon per gallon). Cover the undersides of the leaves thoroughly.

Cautions: Before applying insecticides, read the labels and follow all precautions carefully. It not only will insure personal safety, but will also eliminate insecticide residue hazards.

SUN TAN FINE BUT BE SURE TO GET IT SLOWLY

Common sense is wisdom well spent when it comes to taking sun baths. Acquiring a coat of tan, if attempted by prolonged exposure to the sun, can lead to many hours of suffering—and no tan—according to the educational committee of the Illinois State Medical society in Health Talk.

Sunlight contains about fifteen percent of visible rays, 78 per cent heat and seven per cent ultraviolet rays. Because sunlight helps combat disease and maintain good health, most people should avail themselves of it whenever possible. Sunlight helps manufacture vitamin D in the body, essential to calcium deposition and other factors making for good teeth and strong bones.

But the sun, as a health agent can also cause damage. Experiments show that the individual can get too much vitamin D and prolonged exposure to the sun and cause severe burns, skin disease and even death. Repeated long exposure can, over a long period, cause the skin to become scaly, inelastic and thickened, and is thought to contribute to certain types of skin cancer found in farmers, sailors and others exposed to sunlight.

Some persons, particularly those with a pale thin skin, should take "treatments" only under the advice of a physician. The enviable "coat of tan" should be acquired gradually, a few minutes each day until the skin is "seasoned" or adjusted to the sun's strong rays. Some individuals, who lack skin pigment, find it impossible to acquire a coat of tan.

The special name for sunburn is erythema solare which means that it is an inflammation caused by the sun. The same term may be applied to an inflammation of the skin caused by ultraviolet rays from other sources.

Severe burns cause much pain and contact with clothing or bed ding becomes unbearable. The skin is parched and reddened. The inflammation that develops varies from a slight flush to the severe burn that results in blistering and peeling. Immediately after burning there may be a sensation of heat which is followed in a few days or a week by itching and peeling. Shock, chills, fever, nausea, rapid heart beat and sometimes fear of death prevail as long as 48 hours in extremely severe burns.

Persons who are out in the sun for any length of time often suffer headache, which may be due to the sun's effects on the eyes. This may be avoided by wearing protective glasses. Certain skins are much more susceptible to sunburn than others. In blondes, particularly those with pale skins, the reaction is so quick that even short exposure may bring about reaction to the heat and even acute illness.

Sunshine has a way of affecting the blood and of increasing the red coloring matter. The benefit is received, however, only when the ultraviolet rays reach the skin directly.

In general, sunlight is necessary for health and, in particular, good for the treatment of specific conditions, but care should be exercised in absorbing the health producing rays of the sun. Parents should watch their children carefully. Children as well as adults should expose themselves to the sun gradually.

The great sun dispenses his wares generously, but the person taking them under prolonged exposure must remember that he will pay with many hours of pain and discomfort.

Which is Cooler

RESULTS OF RECENT IMPARTIAL RESEARCH:

Independent engineers of the R. W. Hunt Co. (who made these tests) say this: "The readings on the thermometers pictured are typical of results obtained in separate tests of 3 modern flame-type ranges and 3 modern electric ranges. Ovens were in use for over 2 hours in each case. The flame-type ovens actually increased kitchen temperatures an average of 10 degrees more than the electric ovens." (All ranges tested were top brands.)

The answer: Electric cooking keeps your kitchen up to 10 degrees cooler!

No woman enjoys cooking in a hot kitchen. And, with a modern electric range you don't have to. But there are many other reasons why you'll like electric cooking.

For example, nothing cooks faster than today's electric ranges. And the heat is so evenly distributed you can forget about "pot-watching."

There are no burners to clog up, either. Broiler and oven turn on automatically. (And wait until you taste steak broiled with the juices inside—electrically!)

Heard about our New Share-the-Cost Installation Plan? It can save you important money on installation of a new electric range. And modern wiring means your TV picture improves and all appliances work better. Also, you can install an air conditioner, clothes dryer and other appliances quickly and cheaply. New electric ranges low as $216 a week, complete, installed!
